"Who is so deaf as he who will not hear?"
Only to willing minds are all things clear.

Wall Street turns in sorrow from the bier of Elbert H. Gary to speculate about the probable succession to the throne of the world's second largest and best organized industrial kingdom. The King is dead—long live the King!

The traffic-slowing, bob-tail street car with the overworked motorman
"doubling in brass," was obsolete when Washington was a one-horse town, and is an out-of-date in a modern city as the old-time Star bicycle, with the little wheel in front.

Married lady is winner of the beauty contest as "Miss Chicago," until the neighbors—trust 'em for that—tell on her. Matrimony sure cramps one's style.

Hundreds of Kansas farmers overwhelmed by flood didn't know what it was until they called up the Weather Bureau and learned it was water.

If we must have the one-man car and President Coolidge has already said that this isn't a one-man country—there must be a few of the old Belt Line relics that could be dug out of the museum. Let us have no halfway measures in this great economy drive.

The only difference between us and the German aviators who, to paraphrase an old song, sailed right out and turned right round and sailed right back again, is that we would never have started in the first place.

There is much to be said in favor of Mr. Clayton's argument that the one-man car service should be at a cheaper rate of fare. Who remembers the old 3-cent horsecar line that used to run from Seventeenth street to the front door of the Capitol?
When it comes to that, who remembers the silver 3-cent piece, and when did you last see a copper 2-cent? The flaw in Mr. Clayton's argument is that we haven't got any appropriate coins now.

The new chief of police of Constantinople undertakes to terminate the suicide wave in Turkey by forbidding the newspapers to print self-destruction stories on the front page, and is thinking of applying the system to the wiping out of typhoid and smallpox.

Secretary Hoover, discussing the budget in relation to flood relief and other projects, explains how it is possible to eat your cake and have it, too.

One gathers from Prof. Lounbury's remarks at Charlottesville that when he personally is in favor of a thing he believes in amending the Constitution as we go along.

England has a new dreadnaught of the air so large that smaller airplanes can use one of her wings for a landing field, like the sparrow in the fable, that broke the world's altitude record by going aloft concealed in the feathers of the eagle.

"The pale fac'd moon looks bloody on the earth,
And lean-look'd prophet whisper fateful change."

The Hon. Bill Oldfield, prominent calamity howler, predicts that the next Congress will pass the Hoggan' bill, and we're inclined to agree with him that the Seventieth is going to be worse than the Sixty-ninth, if such a thing is possible.

But with the grain crops short and selling at high prices, where are the Western farmers going to scare up a surplus to haul about?

The loss of the third-term issue is the only calamity to the Democratic party that the doleful Oldfield has neglected to predict up to going to jail.

It is inconceivable that out of this stunt race to Hawaii there should not come tragedy of some sort, and it is high time that this element be eliminated and the science of flying over dangerous stretches of open sea be confined to expert pilots in thoroughly tested planes. Let us hope that by a miracle all of these adventurers will come through safely.

Indiana reports it is expected that aspireants for political office in 1928 will come under the scrutiny of the Antisaloon League. Astounding!

We suppose that the Nantucket lightship skipper who stops the Baltic to take a letter to New York for him is some kin to the Washington painter who one day called down from his scaffold and asked Chief Justice Taft to pick up his brush.

Representative Albert Johnson opens a prophecy shop on the Pacific coast and sees Hoover in 1928 as inevitable. Inevitable is a much longer word than if.

MAJ. GEN. HELMICK AND WIFE INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS

Auto, Forced From Road Near Woodbridge, Va.,
Hits Culvert.

COUPLE, ON ATLANTA TRIP, NOW IN HOSPITAL

Bleeding Officer Rescues
Unconscious Woman
From Wreckage.

Maj. Gen. Eli A. Helmick, inspector general of the Army, and Mrs. Helmick were injured yesterday afternoon when their automobile, forced from the road near Woodbridge, Va., struck a culvert and overturned.

Gen. and Mrs. Helmick, after being treated at the scene of the accident by medical authorities of Fort Humphreys, were brought to Washington and are now at Walter Reed Hospital.

Gen. Helmick has a probable fracture of a rib and is severely cut on the hands and face. Mrs. Helmick, who was picked up unconscious after the accident, received a bad blow on the head. She is cut on the face.

Car Forced Off Road.

The accident occurred on the Fredericksburg pike about two miles below Woodbridge, the railroad station for Cocoquon, at about 2 o'clock. The general and his wife were bound south for Atlanta, the general being on a month's leave.

Mrs. Helmick was driving, and while she was attempting to pass a heavy truck, the truck swerved. In an effort to avoid a collision, Mrs. Helmick pointed the car off the road. The car struck a culvert and overturned.

Gen. Helmick is understood to have been thrown clear of the wreckage, but Mrs. Helmick was pinned under the driver's wheel.

Severely cut and bleeding, Gen. Helmick immediately went to the aid of his wife and found her unconscious. He succeeded in freeing her, and immediately summoned medical assistance from Fort Humphreys.

Taken to Hospital.

The fort ambulance was dispatched to the scene and medical officers gave the injured couple first aid. They then took them on to Walter Reed Hospital.

Since Gen. Helmick was appointed inspector general in 1921, they have resided in Washington, having a home at 3506 Garfield street northwest. The couple is prominent in civilian and military circles.

Gen. Helmick has taken an active interest in civic affairs in the Capital, and has been prominently identified with the organized citizenship movement. He is 64 years old, and was born in Indiana. He was graduated from West Point in 1888. The general served in the Philippines and in Cuba, and during the World War was in command of the Distinguished Service Medal and was made an officer of the Legion of Honor by France.

BOY'S SLEEP UNBROKEN AS THIEF STEALS AUTO

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Driven away unawares by a motor thief as he slept last night on the rear seat of a car.
Beret Wilson, 6 years old, was found four hours later, still asleep in the abandoned car at Prospect, Ky., he was brought to his home in Louisville by a neighbor.

The boy declared he had not awakened during the ride and he was unable to tell anything about his abductors.

Hurl Brick Through Glass at 1217 G Street and Take Jewelry.

Hurling a brick through the window of the jewelry store of Schmedtie Bros.
& Co., at 1217 G street northwest, about 1 o'clock this morning, two men made off with half a dozen pieces of jewelry which had been in the window.

Charles Thomas, a Western Union messenger who was passing, saw the two men throw the brick and then saw them enlarge the hole with a long stick. Thomas ran until he found a policeman to whom he reported the action, but by the time they returned the thieves had made good their escape.

The jewelry store is only a few doors from the Cinderella Boot Shop in which two alleged robbers were caught by police Saturday night.

5 Flee Mississippi Jail;
Lock Official in Cell

Magnolia, Miss., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Five white prisoners escaped from the Pike County jail here today by overpowering the jailer, took his gun from him and then locking him in a cell.

Andrew Zawiski and Steve Boss, of Chicago, are said to have been the ringleaders. Others who escaped were Clark Irvin, Kenneth Reid, and Richard Brown, held on charges of violating the prohibition law.

2 Cleared of Charges
Of Killing O'Higgins

London, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Owen Donnelly and Thomas Merrigan, the Dublin correspondent of the Press Association reports, were discharged on recommendation of the police when they reappeared in police court today in connection with a charge of conspiring to assassinate Kevin O'Higgins, vice president of the Irish Free State Council.

O'Higgins was assassinated by unidentified persons on July 11.

SHOW-DOWN LOOMS IN AL SMITH'S FIGHT FOR SOUTH DAKOTA

Boost or Blight to Come
From Meeting of 64
County Chairmen.

FORMER TAMMANY MAN SUBTLY ACTIVE

Bulow, State's Executive, Is for Senator Reed; McAdoo Has Friends There.

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post) Rapid City, S. Dak., Aug. 15.—The Smith and anti-Smith forces in this State are preparing to come to grips next month. Dr. F. W. Bilger, of Hot Springs, who was recently made chairman of the Democratic State central committee, has called a meeting of 64 county chairmen at either Pierre or Rapid City, and at that time the few but insistent and capable minds behind Smith hope to put across a resolution asking the New York governor to run.

At the same time forces which heretofore have backed McAdoo, but which now should be better classed simply as anti-Smith, are to attempt to kill his home in this State and for all.

Ostensibly the meeting is to be for the purpose of solidifying Democratic gains in this State. But in reality it will result either in the Democratic chairman giving Smith a shove into the arena or definitely turning against him.

It is to be a show-down in so far as this State is concerned. There were two influences responsible for the convention being called.

Former Tammany Man There.

In the first place, Fulton Davenport, of Sioux Falls, a former member of Tammany Hall, has been turning heaven and earth in an effort to send two South Dakota delegates to the national convention in favor of Smith. He confidently expects to be able to do this.

For the last several weeks he has been writing to all of the county chairmen seeking their support for the convention call and at the same time suggesting the name of Smith in a subtle way.

As a result of his activity Dr. Bilger decided that something should be done to stop him. A reporter for the Associated Press was told by servants there that they had been instructed not to say anything but that "it happened about 4 o'clock." Then at length a brief announcement of death was made by F. A. Site, Mr. Gary's secretary.

Mr. Gary, dressed in a white linen suit, his face shadowed by a large black hat, left the house before noon with several other persons. They returned an are: Miss Emma MacDonald, 50; Clary

and Gordon MacDonald, 13, Kirkland, Ontario.

living quarters and sleeping accommodations for a crew of five. Bunks can be folded up when not in use. The radio operator's room is a separate, noiseless steel.

Kane suffered a broken leg and probably internal injuries when his engine was thrown from the track and demolished. Wood died while being taken to Paducah on a relief train.

Physicians who went to the scene on the relief train stated that none of the passengers required more than superficial medical attention. Firemen on the two engines escaped injury.

STATES RIGHTS REST WITH PEOPLE ONLY, LOUNSBURY HOLDS

Citizens Have Power, He Says, to Put Anything Into Constitution.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS MEETING IS TOLD OF AMENDMENTS

Noted Economist Stresses Youthfulness of the Nation's "Fathers."

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—“Despite the mourning for departed states' rights which arises in some quarters whenever the eighteenth amendment is mentioned, in my judgment, anything has a place in the Constitution which the people, represented in Congress, can put there.”

“There is no place for ‘states' rights’ in New York,” said Ralph R. Lounsbury, New York economist, in addressing the Institute of Public Affairs here tonight on “Real and Imagined Dangers to the Constitution.”

Mr. Lounsbury expressed the belief that to question the people's right in this particular is to question popular government itself.

“One may dispute the wisdom of some proposed amendment, and I do dispute the wisdom of cluttering up the Constitution with provisions neither fundamental nor of national concern. But it is not controversial to say that questions of policy have nothing to do with questions of right, and that, if constitutional means are followed, and constitutional ends are sought, the will of those in whom the sovereign power resides should be controlling and should be obeyed. And while in the judgment of this sovereign power, the subject is of national concern, I believe it belongs in the Constitution, for I know of nowhere else to put it,” said Mr. Lounsbury.

“The Constitution was a fit repository for the eighteenth amendment, why is it not fit for the eighteenth? Both evils were so national that legislation by the States was an utterly hopeless cure.”

Farmers “Surprisingly Youthful.”

Another address earlier in the day on the same topic was made by Mr. Lounsbury, told the Institute that the constitutional convention of 1787, “stands unsurpassed by any assemblage that ever wrought upon the political destinies of a people,” in the quality of its members and the extent of its achievements.

Reviewing the history of that epoch-making group of men, he characterized them as “surprisingly youthful,” despite the fact that they have become heirs to the title, “Fathers of Our Constitution.” Of the 55 delegates to the convention, a large number, 37, were in their thirties with “perhaps not more than a dozen over 50.” Twenty-nine of them were college and university men. In his opinion, James Madison, the profoundest student in the convention, had more to do with structurally shaping the Constitution than anyone else.

Of its 55 members, Mr. Lounsbury said that 53 participated in the debates that “occurred not infrequently during the approximately four months of the session.” Government Morris is credited with having spoken 178 times, while James Wilson, and Madison contributed 168 and 161, respectively, to the second and third places in gaining the floor. The others uttered well beyond the century mark in speechmaking. If the proceedings had been fully reported, the speaker estimated that they would comprise upward of 50 volumes.

In view of their work, he believed that none of the country have foreseen the miraculous evolution of the republic to which they were giving form and substance through a document that “reveals itself more and more as a marvel of human ingenuity.”

“Perhaps the crowning glory of all the work of 1787 was the creation of the Federal judiciary for without it the Constitution could hardly have worked at all,” Mr. Lounsbury said, “and doubtless would have gone in time in the way of the articles of confederation.”

Fears Misgoverned by Cities.

“Unless the cities learn to govern themselves they will certainly misgovern the States and the Nation,” Prof. A. H. Hutton, of Western Reserve University, said today in opening a round-table discussion of State and county government.

“I am not sure that a ‘free city’ in a free State assures the future of democracy, but I am sure that if it does not, nothing else will,” he said. “Practically every political device now being used to control the masses of a national government was first worked out and applied in some home rule city.”

Prof. Hutton expressed complete agreement with the statement made here Friday by Gov. Alfred Ritchie of Maryland that “the key to our political power is in the city, and it is here that the success or failure of democracy will be worked out.”

Sounding a warning, however, that America may have too many large cities for the good of the nation, Prof. Hutton said:

“With the population passes a certain point, roughly 500,000, any further increase, far from conferring any benefits on the rank and file of the population, is a positive detriment to them. Growth beyond this point confers benefits on a limited class, but not on the masses.”

He expanded Gov. Ritchie's statement that the masses are responsive to any element of honest and sincere leadership, by adding that the masses are more idealistic than the classes.

Troops Inflict Heavy Loss on Indians and Take Chiefs Captive.

The quick action of the troops has saved Bolivia from a possible general Indian uprising, advice received here indicated today.

The dissident movement, according to government officials, has been isolated in certain sections of the departments of Cochabamba, Potosi, and Chuquisaca, and is not yet general.

solved to return after having negotiated the west coast of Ireland. We headed south by southeasterly, skirting London, crossing the channel from Dover to Calais and then proceeded by Antwerp and Wesel to Dessau.

Koehl said that he and his companion, Loos, avoided big cities on their return flight, but had counted for the Bremen's whereabouts from the time she was sighted over Ireland this morning.

Even Prof. Junkers did not suspect their return and was speechless with amazement when told that the Bremen had returned to Germany.

MAN KILLED AS GALE HITS FLORIDA TOWN

Others Hurt When Buildings in Fishing Village Are Wrecked.

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—One man was killed and several persons injured when winds of cyclonic proportions struck Carrabelle on the Gulf, this afternoon, according to advice received here tonight.

Meager reports received by the local office of the Western Union Telegraph Co. and the Seaboard Air Line Railroad show that a brick building in the center of the town and that several other buildings were blown down. Communications with Carrabelle was broken except as a joint bulletin issued by the North German Lloyd and Junkers works appeared to minimize rumors indicating that the Bremen had quietly slipped into her home port.

While the flight of the Europa was brief and inglorious so far as its termination was concerned, aviation experts said a superb exhibition of airmanship was a superb exhibition of airmanship. Unstinted praise was given to them for having preferred prudence to valor by returning to their starting point.

Aviation experts received sympathizing with the flyers' performance in encountering stormy weather and complimenting them on their skill and clever piloting which brought them home safely, was one from Jacob Gould Schurman, United States Ambassador to Germany. The message was sent to Prof. Junkers and expressed the hope that the fliers soon would be able to resume the flight, “which all America awaits.”

Koehl tonight said that shortly after leaving the home airfields at Dessau, he became convinced that they would encounter other weather conditions than previously had been reported. He took a more southerly course than the Europa, leaving the German area off Norderney and heading straight across the North Sea to Newcastle.

On the English coast it became apparent that the plane would not be able to land, so Koehl had managed to slip between two violent thunder storms, although a heavy gale was still blowing, causing the cabin and plane wings to rattle, while the speed of the ship diminished from minute to minute.

Flown to safety through a black denim fog, the two German pilots of the Bremen now changed their course southward, heading for Liverpool and Birkenhead, a change of course by which they were lost for several hours.

Off Birkenhead “illuminated like fairyland,” Koehl put it, the Bremen finally sighted the Irish sea, flying south of the Isle of Man in the direction of Dublin.

But in Ireland the plane hit the same turbulent weather besides a thick fog obscuring all visibility. Hugging the coast, the plane now headed for the southern coast of Ireland, sometimes going as low as 15 to 30 feet from the ground. The gale that was blowing made this attempt futile, whereupon Koehl tried to negotiate St. George's Channel northward with a view to passing the barrens of the Atlantic. This attempt also failing on account of fog, the plane now decided to put about and return to Germany.

New Motor for Europa.

The pilot plane D-1073, which accompanied the Europa and Bremen on part of the journey Sunday night, landed at Dessau from Bremen tonight, bringing the San Francisco-Hamburg flyers when they got in the air tomorrow.

They will fly through a high fog while the coast and 50 to 100 miles offshore, but a compensating factor will be a favorable trade wind.

After leaving the area of fog in which they were lost for several hours, they will encounter considerable cloudiness, but with intervals of clear sky, the forecast said. Showers will occur along the coast, but they will be local and character. There will be no sleet and no storms.

As head of the great United States Steel Corporation, Elbert H. Gary constantly was confronted with two problems of the most vital importance to the two directly opposite groups of people concerned in them. One was the successful direction of the huge business organization with assets of nearly $2,000,000,000 and involving the interests of scores of companies; the other, the human consideration of the more than 300,000 employees of the steel corporation and its subsidiary companies. That he was eminently successful in dealing with both problems from the standpoint of employer and employee is evidenced by the tributes that were paid to him by the leading men of the industrial world who made up the steel corporation, and those who worked in the ranks of its various companies.

During the years he was head of the steel corporation Mr. Gary negotiated many important matters, but perhaps the one that gave the greatest measure of satisfaction to the country generally was the elimination of the twelve-hour day in the steel industry. Mr. Gary had been in favor of this move a long time and had urged it before the government many times. Finally, in the early part of 1923 a committee of the Iron and Steel Institute made a survey of the whole question. Its report was to the effect that it was impossible to abolish the twelve-hour day because the steel strike would then bring additional men (Mr. Gary estimated the number at 60,000) that there was a shortage of labor, and that to make the change would cripple the prosperity of the country.

With the report was made public the late President Harding manifested his keen disappointment in the failure of the committee to recommend the change.

He wrote to Mr. Gary in June, 1923, and his appeal was sufficient to prompt Mr. Gary to call a meeting of the board of directors of the Iron and Steel Institute with the result that President Harding:

"Undoubtedly there is strong sentiment throughout the country in favor of eliminating the 12-hour day, and this we do not understand, but the account of it is not true. And I expect, because it is in accordance with your own expressed views, we are determined to exert every effort at our command to secure in the iron and steel industry of this country a total abolition of the 12-hour day at the earliest time practicable."

The time came within a few months and the 12-hour day, long a mooted question in the steel industry, was abolished.

Congress Expected To Add To Building Fund, Coolidge Told

Plans Forging Ahead With Increase to $200,000,000 Held Likely.

SCHUNEMAN, BARTLETT REPORT TO PRESIDENT

Executive to See Indians in War Dances During Reservation Visit.

Rapid City, S. Dak., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Plans for the erection of new Federal buildings throughout the country are going ahead on the assumption that Congress will increase the sum to be spent outside the District of Columbia from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. President Coolidge was told today by Carl F. Schuneman and Frank Bartlett, representing the joint investigation being conducted by the Treasury and Postoffice Departments.

Pending enactment of the first year's funds of the $100,000,000 program, which were not attacked in the deficiency bill last session, needed improvements are being made in the 28 cities from the $7,000,000 provided some time ago, they said.

Schuneman and Bartlett have investigated conditions at St. Paul, Minneapolis, Flint, Mich.; Rochester, Minn.; Duluth and Fargo, N. Dak., where the said Federal buildings are needed badly.

From here they will return to Washington and later they will go to the coast to investigate conditions especially at Seattle and then to Oklahoma and perhaps some other southwestern States.

They said bills probably would be called in connection with a $1,700,000 Federal Building at St. Louis next fall. Legislation to permit the selection of a new site is needed first.

Coolidge to Visit Indians.

While the failure of the deficiency bill has slowed up beginning of work on the $100,000,000 program, they declared the delay would give more time to perfect a rounded program.

The bill failure, however, they said, would not affect the status of the program submitted to Congress last session.

The hope expressed today by Hugh L. Burleson, Episcopal Bishop of South Dakota, that President Coolidge will see something of the present-day Indian "headless" feathered, painted and war whoops in which he is pictured, was expected to be fulfilled this week when the President visits Pine Ridge Reservation, but it was learned tonight that here again he will see the Indian in his old-time dress and characterization.

The advance programs sent from Pine Ridge to the correspondents in Rapid City pictured the President's visit as an opportunity to see the Sioux Tribe as it actually lives day by day, but E. W. Jernmark, superintendent of the reservation, informed the Associated Press that the Indians still live there.

Instead, Mr. Coolidge will see between 10,000 and 12,000 Redskins in their native war paint and regalia and will watch them parade with tomtoes and shouting war whoops as they march into the field to portray the dances their ancestors had danced down through the ages.

"You visitors don't like to have us put on an inspection trip," Jernmark explained, "unless we give you something with a little Western color in it. The President can stay here only an hour, so we have decided to have the parade and the war dances, which we thought would please Mr. Coolidge and his party better."

Want Modern Habits Stressed.

The bishop's protest against the public "headless" Indians has attended Mr. Coolidge's mind with the Indians so far perfecting the attitude generally adopted by those who wish the Indians' more modern habits stressed.

While Mr. Coolidge's first interest in the Indians, as was announced prior to his visit to the Indian school, was to see what is being done for the Indians by Government agencies, he seems to have found, so like the newspaper writers and readers, that the Indian's natural inclination to revert to the dress and play of his forefathers results in something romantic and appealing.

He was impressed with the Deadwood ceremony at which he was made Chief Leading Eagle while 300 Indians in full native war paint and regalia stood by, and he is at present sitting for a portrait which will show his dressed in an In-

Indian style.

Events have shaped themselves so that he must be nominated," he said. "Fully appreciating the position of defection in the corn belt, it is clear to my mind that Hoover has great strength all over the country.

"I do not believe that Lowden can make headway, because of lack of delegates from his own State.

"In my own opinion the country will refuse to take Dawes seriously."

Lightship Man Halts Liner to Mail Letter

New York, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—The skipper of the Nantucket Shoals lightship believes in being punctual, even to the point of commanding him to stop by for an important letter.

When the White Star liner Baltic arrived today Capt. F. Summers told of receiving a wireless message at sea from the lighthouse keeper asking him to stop by for an important letter.

Thinking it a matter of life and death Capt. Summers ran the Baltic several miles out of its course and yesterday hove to off the light-house. A bucket was let down over the side and while the 24,000 ton vessel wallowed in the swell and 538 passengers leaned over the rail the lightship keeper came alongside and solemnly dropped his letter into the mail.

"Much obliged," his thanks floated "it's my monthly report to the light-house service and it's due in two days. I wouldn't like to be late."

Sees Only Sioux Indians.

The only Indians which Mr. Coolidge sees here are those of the Sioux tribe which perhaps are a trifl more refined than some others of the white man, than some others of the race. U. S. 1926 IMPORTS TOP BY $509,000,000 ITS TOTAL EXPORTS Former Set at $8,542,000,000 and Latter Fixed at $8,033,000,000.

VISIBLE AND INVISIBLE TRADE IS CONSIDERED

Smuggled Liquor and Tourist Expenditures Included in Commerce Figures.

(Associated Press.)

A balance sheet of America's foreign business for 1926, issued yesterday by the Commerce Department, indicated that the Nation took from abroad values greater by $509,000,000 than those exported.

Not only was the "visible" trade of the country taken into consideration in compiling the statistics, but also sums involved in "invisible" trades arising from such sources as expenditures of American tourists abroad, prices paid for smuggled liquor and freight and insurance payments collected by foreign vessels in American ports.

Summing up the figures, the conclusion was reached that the United States exported "visibly" and "invisibly" $8,033,000,000, while imports to a total of $8,542,000,000, were valued at $8,542,000,000. The net result of all these actions was to leave foreign balances in American banks increased by $509,000,000, notwithstanding, as Secretary Hoover explained in a foreword, that during the year the world abroad increased materially its debt to the United States.

New High Record Set.

"The year 1926 seems to have set new high records in all three of our largest invisible items of trade," he said, "in private investments abroad, in our foreign expenditures, and the yield of our foreign investments. During the year nearly 370,000 Americans made journeys in noncontiguous lands, and American tourist expeditions in Canada also broke all records. The Nation seems to have been traveling and lending than ever before."

"On December 31, 1926, foreigners had on deposit in American banks about $1,443,000,000, ample proof that we are now a great short-time debtor nation, along with our position as a great creditor in long-term investments. Moreover, foreigners had on deposit with American agents and trustees American stocks and bonds amounting to about $1,878,000,000. Our net growth as a result of these foreign investments was $557,000,000. This sum, it may be noted, would be much smaller if one should consider the increase in deposits of foreigners in American banks as a deduction."

The 1926 merchandise exchange gave the United States a favorable balance of $327,000,000. It was reported, the year's exports having been $4,808,000,000 and imports $4,431,000,000, offsetting this the statement gave the world a $40,000,000 credit as having "invisibly" exported to the United States that much in foodstuffs. The same figure is the same as that found in previous years and was based upon confidential reports furnished by the customs service and the Coast Guard.

Expenditures of Tourists.

The account reckoned 1926 tourist expenditures abroad at $761,000,000, while it said that foreigners traveling here spent but $115,000,000, so that the United States incurred a net debt of $646,000,000. On this item private foreign investments were given as the largest interest and dividends during 1926 totaling $678,000,000, which represented a national credit, the report said, while the war debts of the government itself earned $195,000,000 in interest and principal payments for the same period.

Another item going into the calculation was $322,000,000, remitted by immigrants residing here to their home countries, which sum was treated as a charge against the United States in international accounting. Foreign vessels earned $175,000,000 in carrying American freight.

New American investments abroad for the year were calculated at $1,332,000,000, while in the ebb and flow of exchange fluctuations, it was figured that American capital had been sold abroad with a total value of $626,000,000, and American stocks and bonds had been bought back from abroad to total of $509,000,000. Touching the complicated movement of capital, as represented by gold and bond transactions, combined with stock purchases and redemptions, the statement concluded that the Nation had imported total values of $1,981,000 and exported $1,424,000, leaving the balance of $557,000,000 mentioned by Secretary Hoover as the year's net growth of foreign investment.

Molnar's Play, "The Swan" Produced at the National

Romaine Callender, in the Role of a Luckless Lover, Displays New Powers, and Entire Troupe Surprises Wiseacres—Difficult Play Well Staged.

Molnar is a playwright who deals in a subterfuge and subtlety. Much, therefore, depends upon his translator. Again, his character played that not an actress and actors who call themselves such are imminently fitted to portray the central characterizations. One of the reasons, then, why Molnar plays have rarely appeared in the field of stock presentation. Last night the National Theater Players essayed "The Swan," a play in three acts—remembered as an outstanding offering in the career of Eva Le Gallienne.

With all due respect to Clifford Brooke and his thespians, who have carried on in comedy and farce the live-long summer through some of the most realistic of old-time plays, who frequent the E Street playhouse went there with fear and trepidation. They thought that this, at least, would be the milestone around the company's neck; but happy to report, the troupe came through the ordeal, and "The Swan" is still swimming gracefully on a placid lake.

By far the most pretentious effort of the players, the Stephen Cochran-Clyfford Brooks production of "The Swan" with all due allowances made for one man's mirth, merriment and uncertainty, and all concerned being the bright jewel in a brilliant diadem. The reading of the play was done to a nicely, and though there was a slowness in tempo not discernible in other offerings, the half and hesitation scenes were well done. Those who had seen the play previously came away with new meaning read into the lines. Those who first beheld the dazzling light of a satirist, saw shafts of shrewdness easily lost in the shifting of shadows—just as the breaking of quicksilver.

"The Swan" is the focal point of the less marriages of royalty, tears into the heart of a tutor to a princess; a man unhappily made a cat's paw in

ANTISALOON LEAGUE POLITICAL MOVE SEEN

Committee, in Session, Expected to Scrutinize 1928

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Aspirants for political office in the 1928 primaries and election are expected to come under the scrutiny of the executive committee of the National Antisaloon League, which gathered here today for conferences to last through Thursday.

Dr. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Antisaloon League, who recently was sentenced to serve 60 days on the State farm for contempt of the Indiana Supreme Court, is a member of the executive committee, and it is expected that the Shumaker case will receive considerable attention.

There is a priest, the philosopher-old Father Hyacinth—and Charles Hampden comes to glory in this role, though with the Franciscan Monastery as near as Brookland there is no need for his holiness to habet a friar. The Rev. Leon Powers is the Swan, the young lady about whom all the fuss and furibolus center. The prince in the play is J. Glynn McFarlane.

Molnar's comedy moments are often done in his sarcasm, sardonic. Sometimes very much an old-line maître d'hôtel once at the Willard—and partly because of his legs, somewhat a-plumb. At any rate, the picture is perfect. The play has come off—so far as the high point. A scheming old dame, she is royal as a queen. Indeed, this is one of the fine touches of the play, the rôle of Miss Glynn. So, too, a bit of Dorothy Tiernan.

Theater Box Office, come off triumphant; for "The Swan" is no play for mere stock, since its nuances and numbers are heavily wrought and lightly shaded and the merest slip of quicksilver.

ACUTE FLOOD STAGE CONTINUES IN KANSAS

Property Loss Is Placed at $2,000,000; Salina Fears Waters Will Rise.

Kansas City, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Flood conditions continued acute at some places in central and eastern Kansas tonight with the most serious situation reported in the rich farming area around Great Bend where one estimated property loss as high as $2,000,000.

Advices from Great Bend said thousands of head of live stock had been drowned and that hundreds of graineries stored with wheat were surrounded by several feet of water.

About 50 families driven to higher ground in eastern Kansas, when Walnut Creek went out of its banks due to heavy rain fall had been unable to return to their homes today. It was estimated that 75,000 acres of farm land in Barton County were under water.

Two hundred homes were surrounded by water today in Salina and the city was preparing for a further rise of the Smoky River.

Clinging to the limbs of a tree for nearly three hours until a rescue party could reach her, Miss Inez McKee, 16-year-old farm girl, narrowly escaped drowning in the flood waters of Sand Creek, near Newton.

Many rumors are heard of the whereabouts of the missing Sandino, who is believed to be in hiding, and deserted by his followers.

Gen. Salgado, formerly Sandino's assistant, with a small body of followers, is reported hiding in the mountains near El Jicaro.

Chicago-Northwestern Wage Increase Given

Chicago, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—More than 6,000 maintenance of way employees of the Chicago & Northwestern were today granted increases in wages by a United States board of arbitration. Approximately 2,000 others were denied increases.

Section men, the largest class of maintenance of way employees were granted a minimum wage of 37 cents an hour. They had asked for 37 cents as the company had held out for a scale of 30 cents.

Louis Grill, former State chairman, and others lean toward the Missouri view, and there is no doubt but that Reed has considerable support in this State.

Will Howes, of Huron, Democratic national committeeman, is said to be a very close personal friend of William McAdoo, and it is understood not yet to be in the mood to consider his champion out of the running. He will again attempt, it is believed, to organize the State for him.

Dr. E. S. Shumaker, who recently was sentenced to serve 60 days on the State farm for contempt of the Indiana Supreme Court, is a member of the executive committee of the National Antisaloon League, which gathered here today for conferences to last through Thursday.

Dr. Shumaker is scheduled to deliver one of the addresses of welcome to the dry workers who are coming to attend the convention of the World League Against Alcoholism, which begins formal sessions Thursday and runs into next week.

A conference of field workers will open tomorrow to discuss new methods of prohibition enforcement. There also will be a series of young peoples rallies

JUDGE GARY.

Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, was the foremost active business man of the United States. He was blessed with good health, which he conserved by simple living, and thus he was enabled to continue his work after he was 80 years of age. The Steel Corporation was largely his own creation. Certainly he was its leading spirit, both in planning and executing. He never would have retired. Work was enjoyment and refreshment to him.

To Judge Gary, more than to any other representative of "big business," is due the changed attitude of the public toward great corporations. He was so fair-minded, so moderate in act and speech, and so enlightened in his conception of the relations that should obtain between employers and employees, as well in his sense of the duty which both owe to the public, that he swayed the attitude of the entire business world. The employees of the Steel Corporation recognized in him a stalwart friend. Many of them are well-to-do because of the opportunities which he made for all of them.

The solidity of the industrial edifice reared by Judge Gary was demonstrated yesterday, when unexpected news of his death reached the market. After a brief flurry, steel stock immediately reached its normal point. The passing of the founder and builder did not shake the foundation of the structure. It stands as a monument to him and to the American genius for cooperation. Nothing but prolonged folly can destroy the organization so patiently and thoroughly built up by Judge Gary. Evidently the business world feels certain that competent hands will take up Judge Gary's tasks.

In public affairs Judge Gary's judgment was remarkably accurate. He believed in solid progress, and therefore he was cautious in his estimates of men and measures; but his breadth of view gave him perfect faith in the future of the United States and the courage to plan on a gigantic scale befitting the national power. His common sense seemed so much of the everyday sort that his greatness as a planner and builder was not fully appreciated. As the years go by his true stature will become apparent. He will rank among the industrial geniuses of the world.

ARMY RESERVE Fliers.

Notwithstanding the failure of Congress during the last session to provide the funds asked by the War Department to promote flying by reserve officers, more than 1,700 Air Corps reserves and National Guard officers will have received instruction in flying by the end of the present instruction season. Air training camps are maintained at Boston, New York, Baltimore, Atlanta, Columbus, Chicago, Omaha, San Antonio and San Francisco, and the enrollment at each has demonstrated the keen interest which officers of all the organizations take in air navigation.

"No effort should be spared to keep the flying efficiency of our reserve officers at the highest possible standard," says the Acting Secretary of War, F. Trubee Davison, commenting upon the work of the camps during the season. "They are the men we would have to turn to in case of war to fill the gap between peace and war time aerial strength."

Secretary Davison explains that there has been no increase in training hours this year because of the lack of a sufficient number of modern planes, but he adds great strides have been made in the permanent improvement of reserve flying, and he adds:

In the first place, 40 reserve officers will be sent to our training school at San Antonio for a whole year and 110 will be called on active duty. Authorization is also given in the five-year program for annual increases in reserve officers on active duty until the annual total is 550. This maximum will be reached in 1932.

We have 7,000 reserve officers, but only 654 of these are rated as Class A pilots. This percentage is much too small, but it can be augmented only by increasing the opportunity of reserve officers for flying practice.

DENTON JAIL REFORM.

Federal authorities are investigating the charge that United States prisoners confined at Denton, Md., have been granted "illegal liberties." It is reported that the inmates of Sheriff William H. Jackson's lockup have the privilege of fishing, playing baseball and cards. After one experience permission to sit on the front porch of the jail was denied them. Mrs. Jackson objected to the litter of cigarette stubs.

Sheriff Jackson, in the performance of his duties as a law enforcement officer, has, no doubt, kept up with modern penology. He is familiar with the fact that prisoners in the larger Federal penitentiaries have baseball leagues and motion picture shows to entertain them. He has established that inmates of other institutions are permitted to play cards. Fishing is not ordinary prison routine, but the Denton jail abuts upon a river. His boarders do not have to leave the premises in order to engage in piscatorial pursuits.

It is, therefore, easy to sympathize with

Sheriff Jackson in his present plight. An agent of the district attorney no doubt would have been grounds for suspecting that the Senate had engaged in a gigantic conspiracy of misrepresentation. As it was, the truth emerged triumphant over sensationalism, whether mistaken or intentional.

"The Senate itself affords ample material for that sort of stuff without misrepresentation," remarked Senator Glass, evidently referring to sensationalism. That is true, and no correspondent with regard for truth will attempt to embroider the highly sensational occurrences and utterances of the Senate. The difficulty in writing reports of the Senate is not in putting restraint upon sensationalism, but in describing grotesque situations while treating the Senate with respect.

If Senator Glass will devise some method for restricting the sensationalism of the Senate it will not be necessary to annul or revise the first amendment to the Constitution.

HOW ABOUT OVERPRODUCTION?

The problem of farm relief, left in a confused state with the adjournment of the Sixty-ninth Congress, becomes only more muddled by the efforts that have been made this summer to square politics with economics. The President's intimation that he would favor compromise legislation to remedy agricultural depression has brought forth a variety of suggestions. The administration label has been applied to the majority of these proposals. It is, however, apparent that as yet the various schemes represent only individual groping for a solution that will square with the reason of President Coolidge's veto message and the desire of the farm bloc.

About all that these so-called administration measures have accomplished is to abandon the price-fixing features of the McNary-Haugen bill and tone down the visible expenditure of public funds. Theoretically the new creations are pure in these respects; whether they would be in practice is another question. Certainly they are not as bald as the McNary-Haugen bill, nor do they make the demand, outright and forthwith, for $1,500,000,000 as does the measure which Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, says he will introduce at the next session of Congress.

A feature is always present—the storing of surplus crops for the purpose of stabilizing prices. Secretary Jardine, who found the McNary-Haugen bill quite unacceptable, has just gone on record in favor of a project of this sort. His view is that a revolving fund of $200,000,000 provided by the Federal Government would more than provide the necessary capital. It would, he says, be only necessary to store the surplus of the fat years against the lean to "prevent undue depression of prices at harvest time."

The disposition of surplus crops is the common denominator of all forms of agricultural relief. It is an accepted fact that there will be a surplus, but no plan yet advanced has cited any concrete fashion of restraining the surplus, once the financial danger of over-production has been removed. Some plans frankly fail to take this phase of the question into account. Others suggest that production may be limited through the farmers' cooperatives. The law can not fix the limit, and human nature will not. Absorption of the surplus through artificial means will not only prevent the operation of the law of supply and demand but encourage overproduction. A surplus that grows faster than it can be distributed will solve nothing.

There is, moreover, one factor that can not be overlooked. The administration can not put any form of agricultural relief through Congress over the protest of the farm bloc. The check which the presidential power of veto exercised against the McNary-Haugen bill has a countercheck in the organized strength of farm politicians in Congress. Isolated action on the part of either faction can accomplish nothing. Plans, proposals and suggestions so evolved are meaningless.

AMERICA'S FOREIGN BUSINESS.

The rapid expansion of America's foreign financial operations is strikingly shown by the report of the Department of Commerce for 1926. New investments by Americans abroad amounted to $1,332,000,000. Deducting the sale of American securities abroad, and the return from abroad of American securities, the net growth of the United States as a creditor was $557,000,000. The dividends and interest on private foreign investments yielded $678,000,000, while foreign government debts paid the United States $195,000,000.

Nearly 370,000 American tourists last year spent $761,000,000, according to the department's estimate, while foreign tourists in this country spent $115,000,000. This year the tourist travel has been still larger. It is well known that if France could gather in the profits made by her people in catering to American tourists the proposed war debt installments would be met twice over. Germany is making a bid for this profitable tourist trade as a means of lightening the load of repayment payments. In addition to the "exports" by tourists, aliens in this country remitted $322,000,000 to their homelands in 1926.

The dangers that beset transoceanic flight must be studied piecemeal, and brave men may perish in the cause, but success is sure. The sum of knowledge and experience gained in failures will spell triumph. The fact for congratulation in the present instance is that the German aviators in failing did not have to sacrifice their lives as did Nungerisser and Coll. They live to try again, when nature may be more kindly disposed.

given exactly the same version of it there would have been grounds for suspecting that the Senate had engaged in a gigantic conspiracy of misrepresentation. As it was, the truth emerged triumphant over sensationalism, whether mistaken or intentional.

"The Senate itself affords ample material for that sort of stuff without misrepresentation," remarked Senator Glass, evidently referring to sensationalism. That is true, and no correspondent with regard for truth will attempt to embroider the highly sensational occurrences and utterances of the Senate. The difficulty in writing reports of the Senate is not in putting restraint upon sensationalism, but in describing grotesque situations while treating the Senate with respect.

If Senator Glass will devise some method for restricting the sensationalism of the Senate it will not be necessary to annul or revise the first amendment to the Constitution.

POLITICS IN COMMERCE.

The "lake cargo case," decided only a few weeks ago by the Interstate Commerce Commission in favor of the Pennsylvania and central competitive coal fields, threatens to break out afresh at the next session of Congress. The rate-making body granted a differential in the rates from the northern fields to lake ports over those charged by roads tapping the Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee coal districts. The latter roads countered by a voluntary reduction in rates. The commission has been asked to suspend these.

There is intimation of outside pressure upon the commission. The Governor of West Virginia has appealed to the chief executives of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North and South Dakota for support. "Lake cargo coal" goes primarily into the Northwest, and Gov. Gore is authority for the statement that unless the Southern roads are allowed to decrease their rates the consumers of the Northwest will pay $5,000,000 additional for their fuel.

A combination of the Southern and Northwestern States could bring no direct influence to bear upon the Commerce Commission. Agitation in Congress might, however, result in another such situation as occurred when the name of Cyrus E. Woods was before the Senate for confirmation. His nomination was fought, not because of his qualifications or character, but because it was feared that he might be prejudiced in the "lake cargo case."

In this famous dispute to cloud the title of every candidate to the commission, or will Congress keep hands off and let the commission do its work?

THE GERMAN FLIGHT.

The elements refused to yield to the Bremen and Europa, Germany's effort to be the first to span the Atlantic from East to West came to an end yesterday when the Bremen was forced to return, after having fought storm and fog as far as Ireland. The Europa had the additional misfortune of engine trouble. The fliers thought it best not to tempt fate under such conditions. The decision is not to be questioned by those whose lives were not involved in the determination.

The flight from Europe to the United States remains to be made. The accomplishment may be beset with still other failures. Conditions are such that it is easier to span the distance from these shores eastward than to come this way. Prevailing winds favor the aviator when the shores of North America drop behind him, while those who head in this direction must overcome the resistance of these same breezes. The difference counts heavily in speed, fuel consumption and time necessary for its journey.

The outlook was not favorable when the German planes set out. Weather reports indicated the presence of atmospheric disturbances over the Atlantic. Delay seemed overlong to the waiting men. They wanted to be off, more especially since French and English aviators also waited for the first opportunity to get their planes in motion. Their eagerness cost them one machine and may give their rivals the advantage of an earlier start.

The dangers that beset transoceanic flight must be studied piecemeal, and brave men may perish in the cause, but success is sure. The sum of knowledge and experience gained in failures will spell triumph. The fact for congratulation in the present instance is that the German aviators in failing did not have to sacrifice their lives as did Nungerisser and Coll. They live to try again, when nature may be more kindly disposed.

AN EXPERIMENTAL COLLEGE.

The two enigmas of education remain unsolved—principally because no college has dared to solve them. These are: How many people can be educated? and, How can teaching best be done? Colleges have evaded the issue by gradual changes and by substitution, but have as yet not dared to face squarely the problem.

The University of Wisconsin will undertake to solve the issue when its experimental college, under the leadership of Alexander Melikjohn, swings into action this fall. The general plan of action will be that of establishing a small college, a veritable "learning community" in a large university. The students will be isolated from the rest of the university as far as living and studies go, and will at all times be in close contact with their instructors.

For the present, at least, the experimental college will be coeducational.

The primary object will be to study situations instead of merely subjects; that is, to study the various subjects in their relation to each other instead of studying them separately. In regard to the method of study and teaching, the objective will be a college where the teachers will teach less and the students will study more. There will be few lectures in the formal sense, and little if any classroom work.

The projectors of this plan have avoided any semblance of a set curriculum of study, preferring to keep the experiment in its true sense, but it is probable that the course this fall will be the study of Athenian civilization in its great period. This method of approach is so radically different from that of "subjects" that the results are impossible to predict. It seems to be high time, however, to become acquainted with civilization as a whole, and this plan of learning how to nail planks together before cutting down too much timber seems to be logical.

HOOVER SAYS HUGE PROJECTS WILL NOT DISTURB U. S. BUDGET

None at Stage Where Large Funds Are Needed, Secretary States.

$30,000,000 PER YEAR HELD TO BE SUFFICIENT

Appropriation Will Not Affect Mellon Tax Cut Plan, Official States.

Los Angeles, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Construction of seven great engineering projects contemplated by the Federal Government, including the development of the Colorado River and Mississippi Flood Control, will not seriously disturb the national budget, Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, said today.

The Secretary, who yesterday predicted action by the next session of Congress on the proposed damming of the Colorado for flood relief, power development and irrigation, said there would be no necessity for abandoning radical reductions in taxes. Among other projects contemplated by the Government are the inland waterways system, development of the Columbia River basin, the St. Lawrence International Canal and the regulation of the Great Lakes level.

Large Funds Not Needed.

"None of these projects," Hoover said, "has as yet reached the stage where vast amounts of money are necessary to be appropriated. All of them, excepting those affecting the Colorado and Mississippi, are in such state that only preliminary appropriations will be asked. Only $30,000,000 will be required annually to carry on the work upon the proposed Boulder Canyon Dam and the Mississippi projects."

"This is relatively a small amount and its appropriation by the impeding Congress will in no way offset the reduction plan proposed by Secretary Mellon."

"Therefore, it is not to be considered that the question of adequate financing will in any way operate to prevent or delay the development of the Colorado River. The only thing necessary is to establish a highway between the two states of the Colorado River area touching the proper plan of proposed development. That such an agreement will be arrived at in the forthcoming conference of governors of these States is pretty generally admitted. I anticipate a general and favorable action upon the Colorado project at the next session of Congress."

Secretary Hoover will depart Thursday for Washington for a short official conference prior to going again into the flood areas of the lower Mississippi. He is planning a fishing expedition to Santa Catalina Island for the next few days.

Col. Grant Holds Up McKinley Pool Plan

The project to build a bathing pool in the McKinley High School grounds at Second and T streets northeast, was definitely put off for ten days yesterday when Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d wrote to the District Commissioners to that effect. The Hon. Col. Grant was in reply to a notice served on him by the Commissioners that the Board of Education would protest to the Fine Arts Commission against the projected location of the pool.

Original plans for construction of the pool were all found to exceed the amount appropriated when they were opened Friday, and Col. Grant is preparing new plans which will allow for construction within the amount appropriated.

Teacher of Capital Education Director

Miss Geha Borchardt, a teacher at Business High School, was elected to the board of directors of the World Federation of Education Associations at the recent conference of the organization in Toronto, Canada. Miss Borchardt resides at home at 1741 Park road northwest last night. She has been employed as a teacher of English at the high school for the last six years. She went to the conference as a delegate of the American Federation of Teachers. The federation is composed of educational associations of the entire world and more than 5,000 delegates attended the recent conference.

Exquisite complexion seldom passes unnoticed, and girls, like lovely Miss Irene Moran, who possess this charm, are naturally pleased with praise of it. Miss Moran, who lives at 521 St. Mark's Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. says: "I owe many compliments to using the delightful Black and White Face Powder, which gives my complexion the rosy, velvety appearance every girl desires. It never cakes in the pores or makes me look over-powered, but benefits my skin marvelously, making it finer-grained and more satin-smooth than it's ever been before."

Black and White Face Powder is boiled many times through finest silk, giving it an impalpable soft, exquisite texture which is kind to the most delicate skin. You can get the attractive 25 boxes of this dainty powder from 80,000 dealers everywhere.

If your dealer doesn't have the Black and White Beauty Creams you want, send his name to Plough, Dept. 62, Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive FREE a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book containing many interesting facts on beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

Midwest Dry Status Improved, Says Doran

(Associated Press)

Returning yesterday from an inspection of prohibition enforcement in the middle West, Commissioner Doran said conditions were greatly improved and that the enforcement machinery was functioning efficiently.

He visited Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, St. Paul and Columbus, Ohio, paying particular attention, he said, to "wild" breweries in Detroit, Buffalo and Chicago. These breweries, he declared, produce a drink much like homebrew.

Mrs. Jane Ensor Wins Divorce

Chairman Bullard, of the Federal Radio Commission, yesterday announced that permits to operate on the new wave lengths recently assigned had been withheld temporarily from 25 broadcasting stations. The names of the stations were withheld, but the chairman said they all had failed to remain upon prescribed wave lengths during the last 60 days.

A special meeting of the commission

Permits of 25 Radio Stations Withheld

(Associated Press)

has been summoned for today at which a decision will be reached as to whether the offending stations will be given permits later. The commission has ordered a second 60-day license period beginning tonight, during which broadcasting stations will be allowed to continue operations under permit with the new wave lengths.

Savage in War Press Office

Major Emmett W. Savage, Infantry, has been detailed to the press relations office of the War Department as an assistant to Maj. Charles F. Thompson. Maj. Savage was a lieutenant colonel in the World War and comes here from headquarters of the Second Corps Area, Governors Island, N. Y.

Curtis Not in 1928 Race, He Indicates

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Sen.

ator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader in the United States Senate, to-day expressed the wish that his friends "in Kansas or in the Nation take no action, particularly at this time," which would place him in the position of being compelled to run for president.

"Under no circumstances will I be a stalking horse to help or injure any candidate," he declared. "Nor will I be drawn into a discussion of probable candidates until President Coolidge's attitude is more clearly defined."

Car, Stolen in Chicago, Is Recovered in Spain

Chicago, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Regular

sea-going "hack" commented a policeman today as he informed G. Marshall, of this city, that his automobile stolen here had been recovered in Barcelona, Spain.

The car which disappeared in September, 1925, was found as a result of the arrest in New York of James Ballester, said to be the head of an international ring of automobile thieves. Mr. Marshall had collected theft insurance on the car.

The Private Life of Helen of Troy

A SATIRE ON MODERN LIFE THROUGH THE LIPS OF THE ANCIENTS

By JOHN ERSKINE

PART FOUR
DEATH AND BIRTH

"Charitas sent her husband to complain of the way you spoke to her," Eteoneus said. "You've been my servant for many years. You were the one person in the household I used to consider a little bit of property. But in recent months your tongue has been getting you in trouble. You yourself reported some high words with Orestes, and I had to object to your disposition to discuss my wife. Now our best neighbor comes in and it's his wife you've discussed. What has happened, Eteoneus? And what ought I do with you?"

"Nothing has happened to me, Menelaos," said the gatekeeper; "nothing but old age. I believe age has not essentially altered my character, but if you think it has, perhaps you ought to retire me. It is the days when my temnestra and whether Clytemnestra didn't kill him in self-defense. I remember I said I'd submit the question to Helen as soon as she came in. She would know if her sister's husband tried to kill her and couldn't, or if the lady just killed her husband spontaneously."

"It does sound impudent, and I'm sure it's softer than what you actually said," remarked Menelaos.

"Menelaos, why don't you speak better of my behavior? If I gossiped with the neighbors about you and your relatives? What I think of Clytemnestra and what I think of your wife, is my private opinion—I believe you suggested as much; to talk of such things to Charitas is strictly none of my business. She's a good girl."

"I have a most complicated affair with Helen. She's a good girl, but I'm getting you in trouble. You yourself reported some high words with Orestes, and I had to object to your disposition to discuss my wife. Now our best neighbor comes in and it's his wife you've discussed. What has happened, Eteoneus? And what ought I do with you?"

"Merciful gods!" cried Menelaos. "In my house? A child? I call that an outrage!"

conduct gave satisfaction, only the common road of travelers stood outside your door, and only normal events happened inside of it. Now, as you'll admit, we have strange visitors who come to see us; this house is new or ought to be new, to no experience. I doubt if my speech has become less guarded; I should probably have made the same comments forty years ago, if the same events had happened then.

"Yes, and Charitas is sending her boy away, so that he may not marry the girl, and see his own child occasionally," said Eteoneus. "I call that unnecessarily mean."

"I must see what can be done about it," said Menelaos.

"Nothing to do now but wait," said Eteoneus.

"Oh, yes, there is!" said Menelaos. "The child can be born somewhere else. My house can do very well without another scandal for a while. But to return to you, Eteoneus. There's another complaint against you. You had a conversation with Hermiones recently, and I heard of all subjects. Hermiones says it was the most suggestive talk she has heard, and she is profoundly shocked."

"I told her not a word that wasn't perfectly delicate, not a syllable that wasn't true."

"I can't tell that sort of truth to young girls nowadays, Eteoneus. Hermiones has led a sheltered life, and I want her to keep the innocence of youth as long as possible."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

RULES FOR TOOTHBRUSH SANITATION.

The toothbrush is loaded, according to Prof. Winslow of Yale.

The New Haven health department wanted to find out about toothbrushes. They asked Prof. Winslow to investigate. He bought or borrowed 20 toothbrushes, all of which were working at their time of day of transfer. Some had been in daily use for several years. Three of the number were communal toothbrushes, being previously used by several members of the same household.

Winslow reported finding a wide variation in the number of bacteria he was able to wash out of these toothbrushes. They ranged from zero to three million. He and his associates did not try to find out which kinds how many kinds there were, but they did look for members of the three groups.

Of members of the colony family he found none. The number of acid-forming bacteria ranged from zero to 20,000 to 30,000. The number of the hemolytic streptococci ranged from zero to 300 to 3000. The number of the non-hemolytic streptococci was being charged with a multitude of crimes in recent years.

The length of time the brush had been in use was important from the standpoint of the number of bacteria found. The brushes in use over four months ranged about 200,000 as many bacteria as did those used less than four months. The brushes with high counts of streptococci and acid-forming bacteria were those long in use.

Brushes obtained from people with chronic mouth diseases contained twice as many bacteria as did those with healthy mouths.

"We've wandered from the subject," said Menelaos. "You've answered the first complaints against you. How about those sarcastic remarks?"

"I wonder what has happened between them," said Menelaos. "They used to be friends, and Charitas is the kind of woman I like to have. Helen associated with—very steady, sensible, thoroughly reliable."

"I doubt if Helen thinks either sensible or reliable," said the gatekeeper.

"What does she think her?"

"She said once that Charitas was responsible."

"An insult!" said Menelaos.

"She meant it as no compliment," said Eteoneus. "She meant that Charitas sticks to the convention."

"That's compliment enough, these days," said Menelaos. "What on earth possesses this woman?"

"Which one?"

"My wife."

"Well, that's about the same thing as I said you when you came home," said Eteoneus. "And you were angry at me now, if you will tell me that too."

"I wonder what has happened between them," said Menelaos. "They used to be friends, and Charitas is the kind of woman I like to have. Helen associated with—very steady, sensible, thoroughly reliable."

"I doubt if Helen thinks either sensible or reliable," said the gatekeeper.

"What does she think her?"

"She said once that Charitas was responsible."

"An insult!" said Menelaos.

"She meant it as no compliment," said Eteoneus. "She meant that Charitas sticks to the convention."

"That's compliment enough, these days," said Menelaos. "What on earth possesses this woman?"

"Which one?"

"My wife."

"Well, that's about the same thing as I said you when you came home," said Eteoneus. "And you were angry at me now, if you will tell me that too."

"We've wandered from the subject," said Menelaos. "You've answered the first complaints against you. How about those sarcastic remarks?"

Boston won an 11-to-9 verdict over New York in the same amount.

The Cincinnati entry dropped its first game of the tourney by losing a 12-to-3 decision to "Box" Decaluwe's strong Chicago Club in a game replete with numerous base hits.

Washington defeated Cleveland, 17 to 8, and neared a notch closer to its fourth straight. Roudebush's pitching proved too much for the Ohioans. He issued but ten hits.

PARKS TITLE TO DREWES AGAIN

Jennings Is Defeated in National Net Finals.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15 (A.P.)—Ted Drewes, youthful St. Louisian, retained his title as national public parks tennis champion when he defeated George J. Jennings, Jr., of Chicago, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, in the final round of the singles match here today. This makes the fourth year that Drewes has held the title.

Jennings took an early lead, winning the first set, 6-4, but the champion quickly hit upon his slashing stride and at no time during the remainder of the match was he in danger of forfeiting his crown.

The opening set was fiercely contested. Jennings winning by fast play from the base line. Drewes came back strong in the second set, allowing the challenger only one game.

Play was closer in the third set. Jennings attempted net play, but the champion broke it up with brilliant side line placements and occasional lobs, winning 6-3.

Jennings staged a final spurt in the last set and took the first two games. Drewes steadied and won the next two games and Jennings took the fifth.

The champion started a series of fast side-line drives which enabled him to lead at 4-3. Jennings removed his cap and with determination pulled out the eight games for four-all. After that, however, the challenger was no match for the champion.

The Chicago team of Ralph Rice and George J. Jennings, Jr., won the double championship of the national public parks tennis tournament by defeating Ted Drewes and William Bell, of St. Louis, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the finals.

The Philadelphia team of Amsterdam and Levine, which won the doubles title last year, did not participate in the tournament this year.

RESULTS REPORTED ON EXPERIMENT OF WGY

Test, Made Over 100-Kilowatt Transmitter, Brings Letters From Listeners.

MOVIE CLUB ON WMAL

The experimental transmissions over WGY's 100-kilowatt transmitter have brought a large volume of listener response, according to a report from the station. A survey of the letters received indicates that:

WGY was heard with good volume and clarity in parts of the country not reached since early spring.

Broadcasting strength over the region east of the Mississippi River and north of North Carolina is equal to stations operating within 50 miles of the receiver.

The strength is so great that static, even during severe electrical storms, was said to have been completely overcome and the program could be appreciated for its musical quality.

WGY is not appreciably improved by high power in areas with 500 miles where WGY's normal transmissions ended. Many of the more distant listeners reported that fading was less frequent and less pronounced than at 20 kilowatts.

Transmission is excellent and quality of reproduced signal above the average. The 100-kilowatt broadcasting tuned sharply. Those with sensitive receivers were able, in many cases, to tune out WGY and tune in more distant stations.

WGY's new equipment has added 20 kilowatts from WGY's frequency.

Tests on 100 kilowatts will be continued by radio engineers of the General Electric Station every morning from 12 to 1, Eastern standard time, under the special license granted by the Federal Radio Commission for a period of 90 days.

The star attraction in the Eversedy House tonight at 8 o'clock will be Joe Green, who will be featured in "The Eversedy Orchestra," the violin soloist up the soloists, the vibraphone and the marimba. Green will begin his program with "A Bunch of Roses," which is Spanish in character. His own composition, "Dancing Stars," will be the next selection, with the Eversedy Orchestra furnishing the accompaniment. Green's further contributions include, "The Whirlwind," "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "Jazabé," a Mexican dance.

The Eversedy Orchestra, directed by Nat Shilkret, will open its part of the program with the old "Minuet" by Regerini, and will feature songs from Victor Herbert's "Timber Mill," Katchey's "In a Lover's Garden," and "Habadera" and "Dagger Dance" from Herbert's "Natoma," which was produced at the Metropolitan Opera House in 1911.

Gipsy and Marta, Pacific Coast harpists, will be guests of "The Cavalcade" in their presentation at 9 o'clock tonight. These two young women made frequent appearances before the microphone of KPO, San Francisco, and have an enthusiastic following of radio listeners of the far West.

The Hofbrau Orchestra will conclude the broadcast with an hour of dance tunes.

The baseball games will again replace the afternoon programs from WEAZ when Washington opens a series with St. Louis this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Washington time.

The WMAL Radio Movie Club will be on the air from that station at 10:30 o'clock tonight, presenting "The Man With a Gun," Dorothy Wilson Hirsch, director; Dorothy Wilson Hirsch, contralto; Lee Cronican, pianist, and Billy Harbinson, singer, will also be heard.

Three hours earlier Morgan Killey, an old-time fiddler, will broadcast a short Everyone Gets a Kick Out of the Gumps. Watch for Their Full Page Sunday in the Comics.

An interesting new feature of WGY's program is "The Gumps" of a Radio "Gumshoe." This is a weekly comic strip based each Monday night between 8 and 9:15 o'clock. Quig Ryan, the Chicago station's well-known announcer, is responsible for this new entertainment, which consists of a daily comic strip, with each day's strip very often having a different subject, or even a different title. It may consist of some interesting personage interviewed or things seen. Among the "Gumps" planned for the near future is a trip to Chicago's lighthouses and cranes, and a journey to the depths of the earth to watch workmen laying cables for some mighty skyscraper.

travel followed by a walk on about one-half of what is 27,000 miles. Chicagoans will be interested to know that the University of Illinois' famous "Mile-A-Minute" race will be held in October.

An interesting new feature of WGY's program is "The Gumps" of a Radio "Gumshoe." This is a weekly comic strip based each Monday night between 8 and 9:15 o'clock. Quig Ryan, the Chicago station's well-known announcer, is responsible for this new entertainment, which consists of a daily comic strip, with each day's strip very often having a different subject, or even a different title. It may consist of some interesting personage interviewed or things seen. Among the "Gumps" planned for the near future is a trip to Chicago's lighthouses and cranes, and a journey to the depths of the earth to watch workmen laying cables for some mighty skyscraper.

The experimental transmissions over WGY's 100-kilowatt transmitter have brought a large volume of listener response, according to a report from the station. A survey of the letters received indicates that:

WGY was heard with good volume and clarity in parts of the country not reached since early spring.

Broadcasting strength over the region east of the Mississippi River and north of North Carolina is equal to stations operating within 50 miles of the receiver.

The strength is so great that static, even during severe electrical storms, was said to have been completely overcome and the program could be appreciated for its musical quality.

WGY is not appreciably improved by high power in areas with 500 miles where WGY's normal transmissions ended. Many of the more distant listeners reported that fading was less frequent and less pronounced than at 20 kilowatts.

Tests on 100 kilowatts will be continued by radio engineers of the General Electric Station every morning from 12 to 1, Eastern standard time, under the special license granted by the Federal Radio Commission for a period of 90 days.

The star attraction in the Eversedy House tonight at 8 o'clock will be Joe Green, who will be featured in "The Eversedy Orchestra," the violin soloist up the soloists, the vibraphone and the marimba. Green will begin his program with "A Bunch of Roses," which is Spanish in character. His own composition, "Dancing Stars," will be the next selection, with the Eversedy Orchestra furnishing the accompaniment.

Green's further contributions include, "The Whirlwind," "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "Jazabé," a Mexican dance.

The Eversedy Orchestra, directed by Nat Shilkret, will open its part of the program with the old "Minuet" by Regerini, and will feature songs from Victor Herbert's "Timber Mill," Katchey's "In a Lover's Garden," and "Habadera" and "Dagger Dance" from Herbert's "Natoma," which was produced at the Metropolitan Opera House in 1911.

Gipsy and Marta, Pacific Coast harpists, will be guests of "The Cavalcade" in their presentation at 9 o'clock tonight. These two young women made frequent appearances before the microphone of KPO, San Francisco, and have an enthusiastic following of radio listeners of the far West.

The Hofbrau Orchestra will conclude the broadcast with an hour of dance tunes.

The baseball games will again replace the afternoon programs from WEAZ when Washington opens a series with St. Louis this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Washington time.

The WMAL Radio Movie Club will be on the air from that station at 10:30 o'clock tonight, presenting "The Man With a Gun," Dorothy Wilson Hirsch, director; Dorothy Wilson Hirsch, contralto; Lee Cronican, pianist, and Billy Harbinson, singer, will also be heard.

Three hours earlier Morgan Killey, an old-time fiddler, will broadcast a short

HIGH GRADE RAIL BONDS AT YEAR'S NEW PEAKS

Relatively Few Offerings in Quiet Market Are Quickly Snapped Up.

FOREIGN LIST IRREGULAR

New York, Aug. 15 (Associated Press).—The bond market today continued to reflect the reluctance of owners to part with their holdings, even at high prices, during the easy money period. The relatively few offerings were quickly snapped up, and while prices in most instances advanced only a fraction, many issues sold at or above previous bid prices.

Among the corporations invading new high territory were the new Treasury 3½%, which sold at 100% for the first time. A strong underwriting was displayed by the entire Government list.

About half dozen high-grade railroads were changed to new levels for the year, and were followed upward by a few of the low-priced rails. Union Pacific's "Frisco," "A" and Chesapeake Corporation's were especially active.

A point gain by Dodge Bros. reflected the continuing rise, while others' "D" and standard strength was less active.

International Paper was sold at a new peak, but Brooklyn Union Gas 3½% failed to continue their recent spurt upward.

Heavy purchase of Hudson Coal Co. bonds by foreign investors advanced a few utilities, were again in demand, especially United Railway of St. Louis "A" and some of the American Telephone issues, which reached new high prices for the year.

The Argentine group was quite irregular. Some South American, Belgian and German obligations moved forward fractionally, while a few others of the same classes inclined to easiness. Bolivia 6s dropped a point, but United States 6s and Chilean 8s advanced slightly.

Tomorrow's new offerings include $20,000,000 Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation's series D, priced to yield about 3½% per cent. Proceeds of the issue will be used to redeem $12,350,000 outstanding series C bonds and to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures.

HIGH GRADE RAIL BONDS AT YEAR'S NEW PEAKS

Relatively Few Offerings in Quiet Market Are Quickly Snapped Up.

FOREIGN LIST IRREGULAR

New York, Aug. 15 (Associated Press). The bond market today continued to reflect the reluctance of owners to part with their holdings, even at high prices, during the easy money period.

The relatively few offerings were quickly snapped up, and new prices in most instances advanced only a fraction over previous issue prices.

Among the securities invading new high territory were the new Treasury 4% bonds sold at $100 for the first time ever. The entire Government was played by a dozen high-grade railroads, a few of the low-priced rails, and some of the American Telephone and Telegraph Corporation bonds, all sharply up.

A notable gain by Dodge Bros. 6% featured a strength while less activity. International Paper 6s sold at a new peak, but Brooklyn Union Gas signed off to continue their recent spurt upward.

Heavy purchases of Hudson Coal 5% brought about a fractional advance. A few utilities were again in demand, especially United Railway of St. Louis 4s and some of the American Telephone and Telegraph bonds reached new high prices for the year.

The group was quite irregular, and certain corporations moved forward, while a few others of the little classed inclined to easiness. Bonds dropped a point, but United States Vicks and Chilean 8s advanced much.

Some new offerings include

$20,000,000 Suez Canal Co. bonds.

Sixty-eight D. P. bonds to yield about 6.8 per cent.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to reduce $12,350,000 outstanding series C bonds and to re-purchase the treasury for capital ex-

RIVER PARK URGED AT COLUMBIA ISLAND BY FINE ARTS BODY

Development Would Be Similar to Area Composing East Potomac Grounds.

DREDGING WOULD FILL IN MARSHY TERRITORY

Landscape Architect Studying Treatment at Soldiers' Memorial Bridge.

(Copyright, 1927.)

The Commission of Fine Arts has requested the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for a survey dealing with final development of Columbia Island for park purposes.

Marshy areas out from the Virginia shore of the river north to the Highway Bridge will be transformed into an extended island with a narrow section forming a link for Arlington Memorial Bridge and for central and southern portions a recreation park.

The plan will coincide with the Fine Arts Commission's arrangement for a waterside parkway along the Virginia shore between Highway and Key Bridges, with a roadway connecting the bridges, and the projected Mount Vernon boulevard on the south.

Survey by Landscape Architect

The dredging operations of the United States Engineers office forces to make Columbia Island a 200-acre tract are now being carried out from dredged land more than twenty years ago. The Island project is part of a number of the Fine Arts Commission hopes to have completed by 1932, date of the bicentennial of the birth of George Washington.

Other projects are the Mount Vernon Bridge, Arlington Memorial Bridge, Lee Highway, western and northern portals of the city, Washington Monument parking, Anacostia Park, and the national arboretum.

Inspector C. A. Evans' Will Be Buried Today

Funeral services for Inspector Charles A. Evans, assistant superintendent of police, who died unexpectedly Saturday morning, will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, 8th Street, while on a tour of inspection, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 1212 Geranium street northwest. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Commissioner Sidney Taliaferro, acting president of the Board of Commissioners in the absence of Commissioner Douglass, yesterday sent a letter of condolence to Mrs. Carrie V. Evans, wife of the inspector. The letter stated that the death of Inspector Evans "is a serious loss to the department and a distress to all of his hosts of friends, and adds that 'Inspector Evans rendered faithful efficient service of the highest order in every grade occupied by him from private to asst. superintendent."

Memorial Craftsmen Are Expecting 2,000

Approximately 2,000 delegates are expected to attend the twenty-second annual convention of the Memorial Craftsmen of America, which will open formally this morning in the Wardman Park Hotel with R. A. Yunker, president of the association, in the chair.

Up to late yesterday afternoon about 500 craftsmen had arrived and registered for the meeting. During the most of the day the committee of officers held a meeting and in the afternoon joined with the advance guard of the delegates in a golf tournament at Union Springs, Md. Officials of the association will open the national memorial show at 1 o'clock this afternoon on Union Station Plaza, where a large number of the finest marble and granite tombstones are on display.

Slab House Village Found by Scientist

A new link in the evolution of the cliff dwellings has been discovered by Frank H. Roberts, a Smithsonian archaeologist, in Chaco Canyon, N. Mex., it was discovered yesterday.

The discovery is a "slab house" village which consists of a group of pit dwellings sunk 2 or 3 feet deep in the ground and made of stone walls. These excavations surround a large central excavation, which is believed to have been the ceremonial chamber or council house of the village. Heretofore archaeologists have known only of a single slab house. It was stated that the "slab house" village resembles closely the dwellings of the cliff dwellers.

Somervell to Study Virginia River Work

Tomorrow morning Maj. Breton Somervell, United States district engineer, and his party will go to Fredericksburg, Va., where they will inspect Rappahannock River work, and then go to Yorktown, Va., for a public hearing on the application of the Eastern Virginia Bridge Co. for a large steel highway bridge across the York River between Yorktown and Gloucester Point near the mouth of the river.

The structure would be a toll bridge forming an important link in the Tidewater Trail leading from the North to South, and is expected to cost $1,000,000. The bridge would be 140 feet above low tide-water to provide ample underclearance for naval vessels using the York River as an anchorage. In its vicinity are the largest and most important plants of the Navy, a major station where large quantities of explosives will be stored and a Navy fuel station.

Inquest Is Planned In Cycle Fatality

A coroner's inquest will be held Aug. 24 at Falls Church, Va., to investigate the death of Edith Rudicilla, 8 years old, at Georgetown University Hospital yesterday morning from injuries sustained when she was struck by a motorcycle on the Fairfax Highway, near Merrifield, Sunday night. Joseph Taylor, 18 years old, of Merrifield, alleged operator of the machine, was arrested following the accident and released on bond, pending the outcome of the inquest.

Mrs. Rudicilla was about to cross the road from an automobile. As she stepped from the running board of the car the motorcycle knocked her down, it is said. State troopers rushed her to the hospital.

Chairman John W. Childress, of the commission, said it was not admitted that one-man car service was inferior to the two-man type of conveyance. He also said that so much had been said at yesterday's semipublic hearing that he thought the commission would throw the whole question open again at a larger public hearing than had yet been held.

Called Not Fully Experienced.

"This commission has been in office only six months," said Clayton. "Manifestly it has not had time to gain knowledge or experience in dealing with this controversy. Its predecessor commission, the chairman of which, Col. Bell, had held his office for four years, at first favored one-man cars, after which he turned around and recommended an order permitting purchase of fifteen of the cars, that thereafter no more should be bought and when those in hand became obsolete they should be replaced with two-man cars. I submit that this commission has not had sufficient experience to lightly overturn this policy."

"The people of Washington are entitled to adequate service as separate and distinct from the rate. You hear no complaints against carfares. The complaints are all against bad service. The law created this commission primarily to compel good service, secondarily, to insure that the companies are adequately returned on the cost of good service."

Excellent Service Wanted.

"If the street car companies can not afford to give us two-man cars it is not for them to demand that the commission permit one-man cars as an economy, but it is their place to come in here and ask for a higher rate of fare, so that we can meet that issue squarely and in a separate question."

The three-story brick building on Tenth street adjoining the old Ford's Theater on the south side, where John Wilkes Booth, the actor, is said to have drunk prior to assassinating President Lincoln, has been ordered abandoned by the War Department pending investigations as to its safety.

The building has been occupied by the Army Recruiting Service in recent years, and following rebuilding operations adjacent to it, several weeks ago, a new wing was added to the south wall. At the request of the Public Parks Office, the District Engineer's Office made an investigation of the building and recommended vacating the building until the walls can be strengthened.

The recently office has moved to the second floor of Ford's Theater Building, and military authorities will seek funds to repair the damaged south wall of the building which appears to bulge inward. According to traditions, the building was once a cafe frequented by actors between performances, and had a rear door affording egress into the theater through an arched doorway.

Palmer, 18 years old, both of Montgomery County, Md., and to Elmer F. Miller, 27 years old, and Miss Mary P. Ford, 22 years old, both of Washington.

Motocycle Policeman Hurt in Crash.

Injured when in collision with a truck at Woodley road and Thirty-third place Northwest, Motocycle Policeman Earl Horsey, 21, of Fourteenth Street, was sent to the Emergency Hospital suffering from a broken ankle, bruises and lacerations. John Burton, colored, 33 years old, 1230 Fourth street southwest, driver of the truck, was paid at the precinct for investigation.

Police Officer Hurt in Crash.

More than $50 was stolen from George H. Helmets, 1217 Emerson street northwest, while he was paying his tax bill in room 130, District Building, shortly after noon yesterday. Helmets told the police that he placed a lock on the door containing the money on a railing near the window while he paid the bill. When he turned around it was gone, he opened the store yesterday.

Wallet Stolen at Tax Office.

McIntosh Requests Bank Suit Dismissal

Action Instituted by California Financial Concern to Bar Merger.

Dismissal of the injunction suit brought against Joseph W. McIntosh, Comptroller of the Currency, by the First National Bank of Pasadena, Calif., was denied yesterday.

These courses, it was explained at the hearing, did not qualify to enter the bank in Pasadena with the use of the words "First National" was asked in Equity Court yesterday by that official through Assistant District Attorney Leo A. Rover.

The court was asked to prevent Mr. McIntosh from approving the merger and to prevent the use of the objectionable title on the ground that it would cause confusion and loss. Mr. McIntosh says that the McCaffery branch banking law confers upon him the power to file a complaint in such matters and that the disagreeable name must not be interfered with by the courts.

The Pasadena bank charged that the comptroller was about to permit a merger of the First National Bank of Los Angeles with the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Co., of Los Angeles, and that a branch of the merged institution was about to be established in Pasadena under the name of the First National Consolidated Bank & Trust Co. Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the two Los Angeles banks, who are about to merge, also filed a motion to dismiss the bill on the plaintiff bank, and he says that Mr. McIntosh selected the name for the proposed branch bank. The motion will be argued before Chief Justice McCoy tomorrow.

Hall Among Three Who Saved Fireman

District Painter Jumped Into River in Saving Work at Wharf Blaze.

Edward S. Hall, a painter in the District Building, emerged yesterday as one of the heroes of the fire at the Johnson & Wimsett lumber wharf fire Thursday when a stream from Fireboat No. 1 knocked Private H. J. Bickler, of Engine Company No. 18, off the wharf and into the water.

Accounts published said Private W. Brown, of Truck Company No. 10, in Washington, Chained to Bickler's rescue and Private G. W. Rock of Engine Company No. 18, in after Brown.

Yesterday Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the Engineering Department of the District government, said he had procured several eyewitness accounts to the effect that Hall went in to aid all three of the firemen and swam strongly, pushing a mass of floating laths they were clinging to against the wharf so that the firemen, fully clothed and their boots full of water, could be hauled to safety.

Written confessions were obtained from Kloss, Wilson and Rawlett, police say. Implicating Tate, Kloss and Wilson admitted the safe robbery of $2,200 at Peoples Drug Store, Tenth and F streets northwest, on July 31, they declared. The $200 robbery at the Old Dutch Market, 3107 M street northwest, on August 7.

Rawlett, described by police as the "finest looking man" in the building, was arrested in his Newton street apartment by Edward J. Kelly, George W. McDonnell, and John Sweeney and John Flaherty. The three other alleged crackmen were taken early Sunday when police frustrated a robbery at the Cinderella Boot Shop, 1211 G street northwest.

The others described themselves as Francis A. Kloss, 30 years old, and Edward Tate, 38, both of New York, and Gregory Wilson, alias George Wilson, 25, of New Bedford, Mass. Kloss and Tate were arrested on the scene after they had leaped through a plate glass window in an attempt to escape. Tate was taken early Sunday morning to the Gaithersburg Hospital, with most of the 100 sticks in his stomach as the result of the leap.

Written confessions were obtained from Kloss, Wilson and Rawlett, police say. Implicating Tate, Kloss and Wilson admitted the safe robbery of $2,200 at Peoples Drug Store, Tenth and F streets northwest, on July 31, they declared. The $200 robbery at the Old Dutch Market, 3107 M street northwest, on August 7.

Some of those interested in the building, however, demanded reduction to a level with that demanded last year, which may increase by Congress, might prevent continuation of the tax rate.

Commentators yesterday, however, expressed the opinion that the 1929 tax rate may even be higher than $1.70, basing their prediction on the statement that Congress always appropriates money for District uses than the Budget Bureau recommends.

With the arrest early yesterday of Randolph Rawlett, 35 years old, of 1483 Newton street northwest, police are confident the entire band of crackmen responsible for recent downtown safe robberies is in custody.

Rawlett, described by police as the "finest looking man" in the building, was arrested in his Newton street apartment by Edward J. Kelly, George W. McDonnell, and John Sweeney and John Flaherty. The three other alleged crackmen were taken early Sunday when police frustrated a robbery at the Cinderella Boot Shop, 1211 G street northwest.

Rawlett, police say, denied implication in the drug store robbery. He admitted furnishing the "layout" for the market robbery and the boot shop, according to police, and also confessed to the band to meet at his apartment as a secret place to plan the robberies. He told police, they say, that he received $60 as his share of the loot from the market.

Friday, he is declared to have confessed to police, he drove the other three in a car to the outskirts of Connecticut avenue, where tools to be used in the bank robbery were stolen. He said he was at "the look-out" at the G street store, police declare, and fled at the approach of police. Wilson also admitted escaping from the store.

They said, but was arrested a few hours later when he returned to his room at the Raleigh Hotel and found a telephone committee of detectives awaiting him. The four will be closely questioned concerning numerous other recent robberies.

Fraud Charged in Suit.

Fraud is charged against Louis Snider, 29, of 1483 Newton street northwest, in a suit filed yesterday in Circuit Court by Edward J. Kelly, 3125 Vernon street northwest, who seeks to recover $5,000 damages. Through Attorneys Noel & Konopka, the plaintiff says that he bought a garage at 1483 Vernon street northwest, on December 4, 1926, from Snider on the representation that the business was prosperous, but it is charged, the business was not prosperous.
